Creating a better riverside environment for people, businesses and wildlife

Healthy rivers are vital for healthy ecosystems. Rivers provide food and shelter for wildlife, which is under increasing threat from pollution, habitat loss and climate change. That’s why it’s more important than ever before to care for and protect our rivers.

Through our River Stewardship Scheme, our charity can improve and look after riverside areas on behalf of home and business owners.

Our menu of services ranges from Japanese knotweed management and wildlife habitat improvement to river clean-ups and tree planting.

Benefits of our River Stewardship scheme:

- Create a better environment for river-dwelling wildlife.
- Reclaim your land, with a pleasant, relaxing outdoor space.
- Control invasive species and introduce native plants
- Licenced operators who can control potentially damaging, Japanese knotweed.
- Learn practical ways to improve your river environment.

Who we are and what we do

At River Holme Connections our aim is to improve the River Holme catchment for the benefit of people, businesses and wildlife.

Our charity was established in 2015 and since then we’ve funded several high-profile projects, including major structural improvements to Holmfirth’s Duck Feeding Area and created an accessible path at Sands recreation ground.

Our certified operatives have controlled miles of Japanese knotweed, while dedicated volunteers have helped us removed tonnes of litter from our rivers.

With your help and support, we can do even more.

In return for a donation our River Steward and support team will carry out agreed work on your riverside property.
